

From her window, she could hear little pixies playing in the field. But she was not rich, and her house was pocket-sized.