

When living things die, little beasts and bugs help to clean up.